The Majestic Line celebrates 15 years on the water with the launch of their fourth vessel

2019 is a very exciting year for market leading Scottish small-ship cruising specialist, The Majestic Line, as they celebrate 15 years on the water. To coincide with this milestone anniversary, they are adding to their fleet with the launch of their fourth vessel sailing to new wild and rugged destinations.

Named after a tranquil Glen on the North West Mainland, Glen Shiel will complement the three existing boats. She is the first boat in their fleet purpose built for the St Kilda run with design features such as stabilisers and twin engines. Similar to sister ship Glen Etive, she will undertake 10-night cruises, this time sailing to the stunning West Coast of the Outer Hebrides, St Kilda and our newly introduced area of rugged and remote Wester Ross for 2019.

The decision to add to their growing fleet began when bookings were at an all time high. Director Andy Thoms had started designing Glen Shiel when Glen Etive's first season in 2016 started to sell out. He said "The Majestic Line needed a new ship primarily because we couldn't meet demand with only three vessels. She is designed to be slightly faster so she can cover the distance out to the Outer Hebrides and St Kilda Isles in a shorter time allowing for more time to enjoy the islands."

Visit Scotland Expo is the perfect platform to highlight this landmark year and the team look forward to meeting buyers and exhibitors across the two-day event.

Notes to Editors

1. The Majestic Line's fleet of four mini-cruise ships include two lovingly converted wooden vessels, Glen Massan and Glen Tarsan, converted in 2004 and 2007. Glen Etive was built for the 2016 season and Glen Shiel is currently being built ready to sail in June 2019.
2. The family run company is in their 15th year of operation.

3. The Majestic Line offers a choice of 15 3-night, 6-night and 10-night cruise itineraries sailing out of Holy Loch, Oban and Inverness from April to October.
4. Prices starts at £1045 per person for a 3-night cruise.
5. Prices are fully inclusive with the exception of drinks at the well-stocked bar including Majestic Line's own brand of Gin. Malt Whiskies are a specialty.
6. Two double cabins are reserved on each cruise for solo travellers at no supplement; this is also ideal for groups of three or five people. There are 6 ensuite cabins with room for 11 guests onboard Glen Massan and Glen Tarsan and 7 ensuite cabins aboard Glen Etive and newly built Glen Shiel with room for 12 guests.
7. Because of the smaller size of the vessels, private cruise charter is very popular. One or more vessels can be booked with a 10% discount on normal prices.
8. Local speciality food and drink produce features highly in the menu; all meals are freshly prepared to a very high standard.
9. An excellent selection of hi-res images are available within a dropbox file.
